I really don't know what I want to do. I don't know what I am interested in enough to make a decision right now, it's kind of scary.	[Graphic: Laura Collins] (student)
I'm thinking grad school but that's as good as it gets I think. (laughs)	[Graphic: Inez Suhardjo] (student)
A huge misconception on every campus is that every other student knows what they want to do. Huge misconception,(laughs)	[Graphic: Lisa Jane Bernard, Career Director, Haverford-Bryn Mawr Colleges]
We're comprehensive which means we help students in all phases of career development, from the clueless, you know I don't know what I want to do with my life, to I'm not sure how to use this particular major to how do I get an internship. We're career counselors that are geared to work with them as individuals and customize their searches. We've got lots of book resources, web resources to help them investigate employers, and graduate schools...programs to bring alumni on campus or other speakers to expose them to different career fields	(Liza Jane Bernard)
I came here and had all these guides and everything for me to look at so that I could figure out where to start and where to begin. I think that's the biggest problem students have no knowing where to start	[Graphic: Katelyn Sampson] (student)
We're helping to put the pieces of their particular individual puzzle together to try to optimize their research to fields that might be of interest to them.	[Graphic: not knowing where to start] (Liza Jane)
We offer workshops in resume writing and interviewing. We do resume reviews you know during walk in times. We do video tape	(Nancy Dudak/ Director of Career Services/Villanova University) practice interviews with the students where we simulate the role of an employer. We put that on a DVD and we watch it back with the students.

I did it and it was really funny because watching myself on camera is always really funny but it was really worth while because I saw what I did well and I saw what I did very poorly	(Kate Sampson, student)
If I had not number one come here and had my resume revised again and again and again wouldn't have had the same kind of reaction from employers and from people in the real world.	(Curtis Fentress, Student)
A lot of what makes the career development office as helpful as it is are the people. And they interact with you, they get to know you and then from there they can guide you in a certain direction.	(Inez Suhardjo, Student)
They have allowed me to become more comfortable with myself, understand the process and really been a mentor the whole way there.	(Matthew Griffin, Student)
We really believe in helping you do what you want to do with your life as opposed to getting into something where your heart or where your happiness lies so we're here to really help you.	(Denise Dwight Smith)
I found great things here. I've done an internship, I've done a call and now I have four offers on the table for jobs. I'm looking back. Things I wouldn't have been able to do without the career centers help.	(Matthew Griffin, Student)
I'm still trying to figure out what it is that I want to do, but I'm much more focused than even two months ago	(Katelyn Sampson, Student)
You only get one shot, so make the most of it.	(Nancy Dudak)
