Externships

Host IPFW Students as Externs to Your Company

An externship gives students the opportunity, over two-to-five days during fall or spring break, to explore a specific career path, gain marketable job experience, and make professional connections by working with IPFW employees or community employees in fields of interest. Think of it as a mini unpaid internship!

Externships can be a great way for employers to meet potential interns, train students, and make an impact on a student's life. IPFW Career Services wants to make the externship experience simple for employers while setting high expectations for students. We will screen all candidates to determine best placement and make arrangements for the students who are approved. Find out more information about how we've run externships in the past.

In the past we've restricted these experiences to spring and fall breaks, but we are now expanding the offerings to better accommodate students' and employers' schedules. With this new focus, we also want to expand the list of employers. We are compiling a 'speakers bureau' list, if you will, of the companies that are interested in hosting IPFW externs. If your company is interested in this opportunity, please complete the survey.
