This handbook sets forth the policies and procedures currently in place for the IPFW Department of Music. The handbook’s contents supplement but do not supersede any university policies or procedures. If any policy inadvertently contradicts official university policy as set forth in the Bulletin, the Bulletin takes precedence.

About the IPFW Department of Music:
The Department of Music awards Indiana University degrees in music, as well as a minor in music. A resident faculty of distinguished musicians, scholars, and artists—including outstanding performers from the Fort Wayne Philharmonic, along with more than 20 associate faculty—provide the finest in musical instruction and guidance. Unique degree offerings, superb ensembles, and a spirit of excitement combine to provide an excellent environment for musical and professional growth. Private instruction in all instruments and voice is provided by artist faculty. Small classes foster a friendly environment with opportunities for considerable interaction between faculty and students throughout the curriculum. This personal attention is also true of academic and career advising.

Facilities:
The Department of Music is housed in the magnificent John and Ruth Rhinehart Music Center on the north end of the IPFW campus. Completed in time for the Fall 2007 semester, this 110,000 square foot facility houses 25 practice rooms, including a percussion rehearsal room; 24 faculty office/studios; two general classrooms, one music education classroom which simulates an elementary school music classroom, a music technology lab, and a piano lab; rehearsal halls for choral and instrumental music; conference rooms; and offices for departmental administration and community arts organizations. The facility boasts two spectacular performing spaces: the 1500-seat Auer Concert Hall, and the 250-seat Rhinehart Recital Hall, both acoustically outstanding. A recording studio is linked to both performance spaces, both rehearsal halls, and to four practice rooms. The building is both beautiful and functional, and serves as a great resource for the Department of Music, the university, and the community.

DEGREE PROGRAMS

The IPFW Department of Music awards Indiana University degrees in music. Degree programs include Bachelor's degrees in Music Education (B.Mus.Ed), Music Performance (B.Mus.), and Bachelor of Science degrees in Music Therapy (B.S.M.T.) and Music and an Outside Field (B.S.). The department also offers a minor in music.

The student learning outcomes for all music degrees are as follows:

- Students will demonstrate knowledge of music theory sufficient to analyze musical forms, structures, and styles; to create within basic musical structures; and to relate theoretical concepts to sound.
- Students will demonstrate performance ability as ensemble members, as conductors, and as soloists on both a primary instrument and a secondary instrument.
- Students will demonstrate knowledge of the history and literature of western and non-western music, with an understanding of the social, political and cultural impacts which shaped music history.
- Students will demonstrate proficiency in utilizing appropriate technology to notate and create music, to investigate and report scholarly research, and to support the specific demands of their professional degrees.

Requirements for each degree are listed below, along with links to specific course requirements as listed in the 2014-15 IPFW Bulletin.

Music and an Outside Field (B.S.)

Students in this program will demonstrate competence in another field outside music by completing 26-29 credit hours of intensive study in that discipline. Possible outside fields include music technology, business, theatre, or another discipline, with the course sequence determined in collaboration with an advisor in that field. A number of outside fields offer internship opportunities which allow the student to gain work experience prior to graduation. Music Education (B.Mus.Ed.)

Students in this program will demonstrate their knowledge of music education history, philosophy, methodologies, and repertoire, and their ability to apply musical and pedagogical knowledge to the PK-12 classroom setting. Upon completion of the course work and student teaching, students are prepared to apply for state licensure in PK-12 Choral/General Music or PK-12 Instrumental/General Music. Music Therapy (B.S.M.T.)

Music therapists use music experiences to promote health and rehabilitation for individuals of all ages and of all functioning levels in a variety of agencies such as hospitals, schools, rehabilitation centers, and private practice settings. The IPFW music therapy program is the only undergraduate music therapy degree program in a public university in Indiana. The clinical training portion of the degree program utilizes an on-site clinic as well as providing numerous opportunities for supervised work in health care facilities in and around Fort Wayne. Students must satisfactorily complete a six-month internship at the conclusion of the required course work. Graduates of the B.S.M.T. program are eligible to sit for the national certification exam administered by the Certification Board for Music Therapists. Music Performance (B.Mus.) The Bachelor of Music program provides an opportunity for an advanced performer to earn a performance degree in voice, winds, orchestral strings, piano, guitar, or percussion. Performance majors will demonstrate the ability to perform at a high level of accomplishment as soloists and collaborating musicians in settings appropriate to their instrument of expertise.

Music Minor. A minor in music is designed for students who wish to enhance a vocational interest in music while majoring in another area. Twenty-four credit hours of approved courses are required for the program.

Bingo sheets. The bingo sheet is a document kept in the student’s academic file that lays out all degree requirements. Bingo sheets for all degrees are on the Department of Music web page:

http://www.ipfw.edu/departments/cvpa/depts/music/students/degree.html

ADMISSION

Students who choose to major in music must be accepted by both IPFW and the Department of Music. For information regarding admission to the university, see the Office of Admissions web page:

http://www.ipfw.edu/admissions

Acceptance into the Department of Music is not automatic upon acceptance by the university. All accepted students who indicate music as their major are placed into the Pre-Music category by the Admissions Office. Full acceptance as a music major is contingent upon a successful audition, music theory placement examination, and an interview.

Auditions. Information about audition requirements, and a link to a practice test in music theory, are found on the department web site: http://www.ipfw.edu/music/

Auditions are heard by a panel of at least two faculty members, and, if the student is accepted, result in placement at the 200, 300, or 400 level of applied study. The Bachelor of Music Education, Bachelor of Science in Music Therapy, and the Bachelor of Science in Music and an Outside Field degrees require acceptance at the 300, or concentration level (e.g., Flute W310).

The Bachelor of Music in Performance degree requires acceptance at the 400, or major level of study (e.g., Piano P400).

Expectations for admission at the 200, 300, or 400 level are described in the department’s Bechmarks for Performance, which is attached to this Handbook as Appendix A.

Pre-Music Status. Students who do not meet all entrance requirements of a bachelor's degree in music but demonstrate potential to do so in the future are retained in the Pre-Music category. Pre-Music students may take 200-level applied study and/or T109 Rudiments of Music to prepare for another audition or T113 Music Theory. Students taking 200-level lessons are also required to enroll in the major ensemble and X095 Performance Class, and may take any university general education courses for which they qualify. The Pre-Music advising category is an option for a maximum of 36 credit hours. or two semesters of study, whichever comes first. Upon completion of 36 credit hours or two semesters of study, the student must successfully audition for entrance into 300- or 400-level study or pursue a major other than music.

Pre-Music students are not eligible for scholarships.

Transfer Student Procedures. Transfer students are required to audition in their performance area for acceptance into the music program. Theory faculty will administer a music theory/aural skills examination to determine placement into the sequence of courses. If the student has completed all four semesters of theory prior to transfer, enrollment in music theory at IPFW will not be required. Transfer students may also consult with the coordinator of piano proficiency to determine placement into that program. These students should work closely with the appropriate degree coordinator to plan their curriculum.

Non-acceptance. The department reserves the right to deny any level of department admission to applicants whose audition does not demonstrate the appropriate level of accomplishment to succeed in college-level music study. Those denied admission to the music major may study privately and audition at a later date, or may take classes in the department as a non-major in open-enrollment courses.

MUSIC CORE COURSES

The Department of Music requires a core of music courses for all degree programs. This core provides essential musicianship skills and music literacy necessary for advanced study and professional endeavor. A grade of C- or better must be earned in each core music course.

All music courses that are specifically required for music degrees may be repeated only one time if a minimum grade of C- is not met on the first attempt. Failure to earn a C- or higher the second time will result in dismissal from the music degree program.

| Core courses required prior to Upper Division: | • T113-214 Music Theory I-IV
• T115-216 Sightsinging/Aural Per I-IV
• M201-201 Music Literature I-II
• Minimum 4 semesters applied study at required level | Recommended; required in some degrees:
• P111 – 141 Class Piano I-IV
• X299 Piano Proficiency
• U109 Comp Skills for Musicians |
|---|---|---|
| Core courses for which Upper Division is a prerequisite: | • T315 Form & Analysis
• M403-404 Music History I-II
• G370 Techniques for Conducting
• Minimum 3-4 semesters applied study; recital(s) | |

Consult the Schedule of Classes (found on the IPFW home page or My.ipfw) to verify the prerequisites for any course you are planning to take. Click on the 5-digit CRN for this information.

Timeliness of degree completion

The Bachelor of Music in performance and the Bachelor of Science in Music and an Outside Field degree consist of 120 credit hours. Due to their substantial professional as well as musical requirements, the Bachelor of Science in Music Therapy and Bachelor of Music Education degrees consist of more than 120 credit hours. Completing the degrees in a timely manner is the goal of all programs, and degree advisors will provide all incoming students with a plan for doing so. The State of Indiana’s “15 to Finish” initiative stresses the importance of planning one’s course load and taking a full load of required classes whenever possible.

In general, each of the first four semesters in the program a music major should take

- Music Theory
- Aural Skills/Sightsinging
- Class Piano
- 300-level applied lessons
- Performance Class
- Major Ensemble
- A required course in the professional or major area
- At least one general education class: the Foundations block of Written Communication (English), Speaking & Listening (Communications), and Quantitative Reasoning (math) must be completed within the first two years.

Students should realize that remedial classes in the Department of Music (e.g., T109) or general education (e.g., R190, ENG W129, or a prerequisite math class) will add time to the degree. Likewise, failure to attain the grade of C- in a required course and having to repeat it will postpone the Upper Division exam and entry to upper level classes. Finally, taking additional ensembles or other courses not required for the degree, while they will broaden the student’s ability and enrich his or her musical experience, will also extend the time spent on the degree unless the student is able to successfully complete a very full load of courses or take general education classes during the summer.

PERFORMANCE STUDIES

Applied Music study. Performance study (applied music) is required of all music majors and is available for the study of voice, piano and organ, winds, brass, orchestral strings, guitar, and percussion. Students take one 50-minute lesson each week and perform a jury for the faculty in that area at the end of each semester, an Upper Division Applied Music Exam at the midpoint of the degree (usually after four semesters), and a recital at the end of the degree (a concentration recital for students at the 300 level, and both Junior and Senior recitals for performance majors).

Applied Study Co-Requisites. All students studying applied music at the 200, 300 or 400 level must enroll in a major ensemble for their declared applied music area for every semester of enrollment in applied music. All students studying applied music at the 200, 300 or 400 level must also enroll in MUS X095, Performance Class.

Performance Class. Performance Class (MUS X095) provides opportunities for music students to perform publicly, to understand stagecraft and audience behavior, and to be exposed to a wide variety of musical styles through required concert attendance. X095 meets twice weekly and serves as a performance laboratory and a time for master classes, workshops, and special events. Important announcements may be made at this time.

Students must be enrolled in applied music study with an IPFW Department of Music faculty member in order to perform on Performance Class.
General requirements for each semester include regular class attendance and attendance at a minimum of ten approved performances.

Transfer students should check with the Performance Class coordinator to see if credit can be given for similar prior experience at other colleges and universities. If no course number appears on the transcript, a letter from a professor at the institution documenting the student's recital class participation will suffice.

Auditioning for Major-Level Study in Performance. Students who are currently studying at the concentration (300) level of applied study and wish to be accepted into the major (400) level of applied study should discuss this possibility with their applied instructor, current advisor, and the coordinator of the intended performance area. They must audition for acceptance into 400 level study. Auditions to add the performance major will normally be heard at end-of-semester juries, but must be accomplished by the end of the first week of the semester in which 400-level study is to begin.

The faculty panel hearing the audition will determine the student’s acceptance into the 400-level of study and, if accepted, the panel will determine the student’s pre-Upper Divisional placement in 400-level study. Students should realize that expectations differ from the 300 to 400 levels of study, and it is likely that they will need additional study before qualifying for Upper Division status. Even if Upper Division status in the concentration has been granted, the student must also successfully pass the Upper Division performance examination in the major area. The student will be notified in writing of the faculty’s decision.

Students pursuing the performance degree in addition to another degree will satisfy all course requirements of both degrees, as well as the post-Upper Division performance study required of the performance major.

Benchmarks for Performance. Benchmarks for Performance is a Department of Music document that lists minimum requirements for admission, Upper Division, and recitals for 200, 300, and 400 levels of study on each instrument and voice. It includes examples of pieces that would indicate acceptable performance at each of these levels. The document is housed on the department web page.

Scheduling Lessons. The Applied Music coordinators supervise the scheduling of lessons and assign students to applied music teachers on the basis of instructor availability and suitability. Applied instructors communicate with the students and post schedules by the end of the first week of classes. Lessons begin no later than the second week. It is the student's responsibility to know when his/her lesson is scheduled and s/he should contact the applied instructor if that information has not been communicated.

Outside Private Study. Students taking applied music for credit must study only with the assigned IPFW music instructor in his or her applied area. Study of the same instrument or voice with another instructor without the express consent of the IPFW instructor is considered a breach of professional ethics and may result in dismissal from the affected applied studio in the Department of Music. Students who wish to study with another teacher during the summer should do so only with permission of their IPFW studio teacher.

Juries. During the final examination week of each semester, all students enrolled in applied music at the 200, 300 or 400 level will perform a jury examination for an applied music panel. Final semester grades are determined by the average of grades given by the panel and the applied music instructor's evaluation of the semester's progress. The applied music instructor, in accordance with departmental expectations, will determine musical requirements for the jury and communicate these expectations to the student.

One week prior to final examinations week the applied music coordinators will post sign-up sheets for juries on the bulletin boards of the respective areas. Each student is responsible for selecting a time that is appropriate for both the instructor and his/her accompanist, and which avoids conflicts with scheduled examinations. Every student must bring an approved repertoire sheet and at least one copy of music to be performed on the jury. Failure to perform a scheduled jury will result in a failing grade in the applied music course.

In the semester of the Upper Division Applied Music Exam, students will perform both a jury and an Upper Division exam. The jury receives the customary letter grade, and the Upper Division is graded on a pass/fail basis.

Upper Division Applied Music Examination (MUS X296). The Upper Division Examination is a mid-degree evaluation of the student's progress in performance and toward degree completion which is required of all students in all music degree programs.

During the fourth semester of applied music at the 300 or 400 level on the same instrument and enrollment in or successful completion of MUS T214, T216, and M202, students are eligible and expected to take the Upper Division Applied Music Examination (MUS X296), a performance for the applied music instructor and the resident music faculty. This exam provides a mechanism for the faculty to conduct a mid-degree assessment of student progress and prospect of degree completion. The exam takes place the last Friday of exam week in the fall and spring semesters and takes place in addition to the semester jury.

If, in the opinion of the applied instructor, the student has not progressed to the point of being ready to perform the Upper Division exam after four semesters on the primary instrument, the performance examination may be postponed, but the student must be ready to take the examination by the end of the sixth semester of applied study. No extensions will be given beyond the sixth semester except in the case of extreme extenuating circumstances and will require the recommendation of the applied instructor, the advisor, and approval by the chair of the department. Postponing the Upper Division will delay progress toward completion of the degree.

Repeating a required prerequisite course in order to earn a C- or better will also postpone the Upper Division. Students may study 300 or 400 level applied music for credit for a maximum of six semesters before the Upper Division. If they have reached the six semester maximum and have not yet taken the Upper Division, they should study privately through the Community Arts Academy until all course prerequisites have been completed.

Students who take the Upper Division Performance Examination and do not pass must re-enroll in the next semester. Two unsuccessful attempts at this exam will result in dismissal from the Department of Music.

In addition to the prerequisites for all students as listed above, students in these degree programs must have satisfied the following prerequisites before taking the Upper Divisional Exams:

- Music Education majors: M236/M216, P141, MUS U109; all three Foundational Intellectual Skills courses including ENG W131 and COM 114 with a grade of B or better
- Music Therapy majors: L153, E253, U355, PSY 120, and STAT 125
- Music/Outside Field Majors: ENG W131, general education math course, six additional general education credits and six credits in the Outside Field
• Performance Majors: ENG W131, general education math course and six additional general education credits.

Successful completion of Upper Division Examination is a prerequisite for enrolling in these courses:
• Junior, senior and concentration recitals
• MUS G370 (Techniques for Conducting)
• M403 and M404 (Music History)
• T315 (Analysis of Form and Texture in Music)
• Music Education Majors: M337/M317, M338/M318, M339/M319, M474, and U355
• Music Therapy Majors: Practicum III and IV; Internship Courses

Procedure: The performance portion of the examination takes place on the last Friday of final examination week. The student's performance is assessed by the appropriate applied music faculty and all resident faculty members and is to include literature and technical exercises selected by the applied music instructor and appropriate to the expected level of achievement. Students must bring to the examination five copies of the repertoire sheet and five copies of music to be performed for the faculty. A majority vote by the faculty will determine one of the following recommendations:

Concentration or major approved. The student is approved to complete course work in the chosen degree program and to begin preparing recital repertoire.

Concentration or major denied. The faculty concurs that sufficient progress is not exhibited to continue work toward the chosen music degree program. The student is eligible for one additional enrollment in MUS X296.

In addition to the upper division exam in performance, music education students must also take the Music Education Upper Division Skills Examination (X297). Music therapy majors must take the Music Therapy Upper Division Skills Examination (X298). For more information, on these exams, refer to the Professional Studies section.

RECITALS

Concentration Recitals. All music majors in the Music Education, Music and an Outside Field, and Music Therapy degree programs enroll in the concentration level recital (MUS X301). Concentration level recitals include 25-50 minutes of assigned literature with a minimum of 25 minutes being music assigned post-Upper Division Examination.

To perform the concentration level recital, Music Education and Music and an Outside Field majors must have completed a minimum of two (2) semesters of post-Upper Division applied music study, with concurrent enrollment in the third semester of post-Upper Division applied music study. Music Therapy majors must have completed a minimum of one (1) semester of post-Upper Division study with concurrent enrollment in the second semester of post-Upper Division study.

Major Recitals. A junior recital (MUS X401) and a senior recital (MUS X402) are required of all students majoring in music performance. Junior level recitals will include 30-50 minutes of assigned literature, with a minimum of 20 minutes of music being post-Upper Division. Senior level recitals will include 40-60 minutes of assigned literature prepared after the junior recital.

Junior Recital prerequisite: X296; co-requisite: 400 level applied study on the major instrument. Senior Recital prerequisite: X401 and a minimum of one (1) completed semester of applied study after the junior recital on the major instrument with concurrent enrollment in the second semester of post-X401 study.

The literature for recitals will include works from at least three different style periods and will be assigned by the applied music instructor in accordance with performance area guidelines. All degree recitals are performed publicly.

Students who do not perform the recitals within the minimum number of semesters of applied study must continue to enroll in applied study until the recital requirements are passed. If the recital is postponed and the student takes a grade of Incomplete (I) in the recital course, the student must continue to enroll in applied study until the recital is performed.

Recital Scheduling. The applied music instructor will schedule the student's recital in consultation with the student, the appropriate applied music coordinator, and the recital hearing committee by the end of the semester prior to that in which the recital will be performed. Once a tentative recital date is determined, the Recital Request form should be completed with all required signatures. After the recital hearing is approved, the recital date is then confirmed with the music office.

Students may perform degree recitals during the week preceding final exam week even though student ensemble performances are not scheduled during that time.

Hearing Procedures. All recitals require approval of a faculty committee at least 14 days prior to the scheduled recital date at a pre-recital hearing. To schedule a recital hearing, the applied music instructor will contact the appropriate applied music coordinator who will schedule the hearing a minimum of two weeks prior to the tentative recital date. The coordinator will notify the hearing committee and the applied music instructor of the date and time of the hearing. The applied music instructor will notify the student.

A three-member committee will be present at both the hearing and the recital. The committee will be comprised of the applied music instructor, applied music coordinator, and a faculty member chosen by the Department of Music faculty. Two (2) members of the committee must be full-time or half-time faculty. If the applied music coordinator and the applied instructor are the same individual, the faculty will select the additional members.

The student’s applied music instructor will bring three (3) copies of the recital program to the hearing. The hearing committee will hear all or part of the recital at its discretion. Usually no grades are given on the comment sheets at the hearing. Comments and suggestions are given to the applied music instructor to share with the student. The applied music coordinator has the Recital Report form signed by all members of the hearing committee, countersigned by the Chair of the Music Department, and placed in the student's file. This process is necessary whether or not the student's hearing is successful.

At the hearing, the committee may approve the recital for performance, make suggestions regarding the program, and/or suggest a later date for the recital. If the hearing is not approved, it is recommended that another hearing be postponed until the next semester of study. The faculty committee also has the option of grading the hearing in place of the applied music jury for that semester or recommending that a jury be performed at the end of the semester. The applied music coordinator will notify the music office of an unsuccessful hearing so that the tentative recital date can be released.
Recital Procedures.

- Failure to comply with the procedures and deadlines established for the hearing and recital may result in postponement of the recital.

- Programs: Within 24 hours after the hearing is approved, recital program copy must be submitted to the music office for processing. Students are also responsible for submitting program notes according to guidelines provided by their instructor. Notes serve to help the audience to understand and appreciate the works performed and should reflect the student’s understanding of the historical, cultural, and musical context of each piece. Program notes should be professional; long personal tributes should not be included.

- Rehearsal time: Students performing degree recitals are limited to a maximum of six (6) hours rehearsal time in Rhinehart Recital Hall.

- Stage set-up: Students are responsible for arranging stage setup and striking after the recital. The Department of Music does not provide stage management during student recitals.

- Receptions: Receptions after the recital are optional and are the responsibility of the student. Contact the department secretary to request a table. Receptions must be confined to the hallways to the north and east of the recital hall entrance.

- Grading: At the conclusion of the recital, the committee indicates grades on the comment sheets and gives them to the applied music coordinator. The applied music coordinator then consults with the committee to determine the final grade and enters it on the Recital Report form, which the committee signs. The report is countersigned by the Chair of the Department of Music and placed in the student's file along with the comment sheets. The student will have access to these materials through the degree coordinator or applied music instructor.

Piano Proficiency. All music majors must pass the Piano Proficiency Examination (X299). Students for whom keyboard is not the primary applied area must enroll in Class Piano (P111, 121, 131,141) until the examination is completed. If students complete the proficiency in fewer than four (4) semesters, they will normally complete the credits with further applied study at the 200 level in piano. Study of another instrument or voice is possible, contingent upon the consent of the degree advisor and the appropriate applied instructor.

Students whose primary instrument is keyboard will take one semester of Keyboard Skills (P211), and three semesters of applied study of another instrument or voice. The choice of instrument requires the consent of the degree advisor.

Entering students who are prepared to complete the proficiency without further study should contact the coordinator of class piano to schedule an assessment of their proficiency.

ENSEMBLES

As noted above, music degree-seeking students studying applied music at the 200, 300, or 400 level must be concurrently enrolled in an ensemble for their declared applied music area (instrument/voice) for every semester of enrollment in applied music subject to guidelines described below, and must fulfill the following minimums for major ensemble enrollment as a condition for graduation. Note that the first-stated requirement supersedes the second: even if the student completes the minimum number of ensemble semesters before graduation, s/he will continue to enroll in ensemble as long as s/he is studying applied music.
Minimum Ensemble Requirements by Degree Program

The Bachelor of Music in Performance requires a minimum of eight (8) semester of applied study and ensemble participation. The Bachelor of Music Education and Bachelor of Science in Music Therapy require a minimum of seven (7) semesters. The Bachelor of Science in Music and an Outside Field requires a minimum of eight (8) semesters, except when an extensive internship would prevent the student from being on campus regularly; in that case applied study, X095, and ensemble are not required during that semester.

Students must audition for the ensemble director before or during the first week of classes. Major Ensembles include: X043 Orchestra, X040 Campus Symphonic Band, X041 Symphonic Wind Ensemble, X071 University Singers, X073 Choral Union, X002 Piano Accompanying (and chamber ensembles) for piano performance majors only, X341 Guitar Ensemble for guitar majors only. X042 Jazz Ensemble may serve as a major ensemble for guitar and string bass students for a maximum of four semesters.

Chamber ensembles (Chamber Singers, Brass Ensemble, Opera Ensemble, Percussion Ensemble, Saxophone Quartet, String Quartet, Flute Ensemble, Woodwind Quintet and others) are usually optional. Small ensemble experience is valuable to the training of musicians in that it develops personal expression, flexibility and more responsibility for the individual part than large ensembles. Music students who have passed the Upper Division may enroll in Chamber Singers, Opera Ensemble, or Jazz Ensemble as their major ensemble for a maximum of one semester, with the permission of their advisor and the department chair.

Music scholarship awards may require participation in one or more ensembles although scholarships for freshman music majors will require participation in only one major ensemble.

Guitar Ensemble (MUS X341) is required as the major ensemble for five semesters for music education and music therapy students whose major concentration is guitar, with remaining ensemble requirements determined in consultation with advisors. For students majoring in guitar performance or students in Music and an Outside Field whose concentration is guitar, Guitar Ensemble will also be accepted as the major ensemble for seven semesters.

Pep Band is not a curricular ensemble, does not award credit, and cannot be applied toward any music degree.

PROFESSIONAL STUDIES

Music Education Upper Division Examination (X297). Students normally register for and take the music education Upper Division Exam during the semester of the Upper Division Applied Music Exam. Passing all portions of this exam is a prerequisite for upper division music education courses and accompanying lab courses (M337/M317, M338/M318, M339/M319 and U355). Prerequisite to the exam are

General education:
- Completion of the three Foundations of Intellectual Skill courses; minimum grade of B- in ENG W131 and the Speaking & Listening course, and of C- in the math course

Music core:
- Four semesters of music theory, aural perception, 300 level applied study, Music Literature; U109 Computer Skills for Musicians
- Successful completion of X299 and X296

Music education:
- M236/216
- Minimum overall GPA of 2.75
- One attempt at CASA, or waiving that requirement because of SAT or ACT scores

Student Teaching

Students should consult the College of Education and Public Policy (CEPP) web page for specific requirements for student teaching: http://www.ipfw.edu/departments/cepp/depts/educational-studies/student-teaching Application is made one year before the semester of placement. Candidates should meet with the Director of Music Education to discuss their placement before submitting their applications to the CEPP placement director.

Music education graduates who apply for licensure in the state of Indiana will be licensed to teach PK-12 Instrumental/General Music or PK-12 Vocal/General Music. The CEPP site also directs music education students to the state requirements for licensure.

The student teaching assignment for music teacher candidates is for 16 weeks at two different developmental levels (e.g., elementary/general, middle school, high school). At the conclusion of the successful student teaching semester, students apply for licensure through the IPFW licensing officer in the College of Education.

Music Therapy Upper Division Proficiency Examination (X298). All music therapy students must pass the Upper Division Exam (X298) prior to enrolling in professional music therapy courses. This examination should be taken concurrently with X296 or as advised by the Director of Music Therapy. Equivalency students are expected to pass X298 and should schedule the examination after two semesters of study or as advised by the Director of Music Therapy.

Skills to be demonstrated:
- clinical vocal skills
- functional clinical piano and guitar skills
- written and oral communication skills
- clinical skills
- professional dispositions

Additional Prerequisites (see Upper Division requirements and prerequisites):
- overall GPA of 2.5 and no individual course grade below 2.0 in the required prerequisite music therapy courses

Specific policies regarding curriculum, course work completion and internship are available in the Music Therapy Student Handbook, distributed to all incoming music therapy students. See specific course syllabi for information regarding applications, letters of recommendation, confidentiality, and use of client materials, and internship requirements.

GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS
IPFW requires a core of 33 credits in general education. These courses follow the state of Indiana’s requirements as determined by Senate Enrolled Act 182 (2012) and are organized into six categories with 41 learning outcomes that must be met by all students. Students are advised to take advantage of the wealth of interesting courses offered by the university for general education credit and to incorporate their general education courses throughout their degree programs, completing the Foundational Intellectual Skills courses within their first semesters of enrollment. Courses approved for general education credit: http://bulletin.ipfw.edu/content.php?catoid=33&navoid=861

ACADEMIC POLICIES
Advising. Each student is assigned a faculty advisor who functions as a resource and mentor for students as they build their academic schedules and plan their career paths. Students must see their assigned advisors during the early registration periods in the middle of each semester to review progress and plan the following semester’s courses. Many music classes require departmental permission, and the Music Department advisor or department secretary can enter the registration permission in Banner. Students can register themselves for their general education courses using OASIS

Attendance Policies. Because class attendance is crucial to the learning process, it is expected that students will attend every class meeting. The Department of Music attendance policies for classroom courses follow these general guidelines:
- absences totaling one week of class meetings will be allowed with no penalty. For every absence thereafter, the student’s semester’s grade may be lowered
• arriving late to class may result in a lowered grade.

See individual instructor’s course syllabus for other requirements and specific details.

Grades. Music majors must complete each required music course with a grade of C- or better and with an overall GPA of 2.5 or higher for all required music courses. Two unsuccessful attempts to attain a grade of C- or better in the same required music course will result in dismissal from the Department of Music.

Exceptions to academic policies require a written request to the music faculty in consultation with the student’s advisor.

Final Exams. Each class (not lessons or ensembles) is assigned a 2-hour final exam time during exam week, which is not the same time as the class has been meeting. This information should be in the course syllabus and is also available online at https://www.ipfw.edu/academics/finals/. All classes are required to meet at this time and can use the time for a regular class, final presentations, or an exam.

Academic Standing. A regularly admitted student, with a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or above, and whose academic average for the last semester’s work has not fallen below 2.0, is considered to be in good standing.

Academic Probation. A student will be placed on academic probation and may lose scholarship and related financial assistance for any one of the following causes:

• when the last semester’s grade point average is below 2.0
• when the semester's grade point average for required music courses is below 2.5
• when a grade lower than a C- is earned in any of the music core curriculum courses, including applied studies, or in professional courses required for the degrees.

Students who are on academic probation will be monitored throughout the semester by the student’s academic advisor as well as appropriate faculty. Students on probation lose eligibility for scholarships and financial aid and risk dismissal from the program.

University policies on academic standing: http://bulletin.ipfw.edu/content.php?catoid=33&navoid=866#Academic_Standing

Dismissal. Students will be dismissed from the department when they:

1) have been placed on departmental probation due to grade point deficiency and do not correct the deficiency in the next semester of enrollment

2) have been placed on departmental probation for failure to earn a C- or better in a music course required for the degree (with the exception of X095, Performance Class) and do not earn a C- or better in the second attempt in the same course

3) fail to earn a C- or better in two consecutive semesters of the same ensemble.
Readmission. Students who have been dismissed from the department may petition for readmission one semester from the date of dismissal. Students returning from dismissal will automatically be on probation. Failure to maintain a 2.5 GPA for the first semester of reentry or to make a C- or better in a required music course will result in permanent dismissal from the department.

Grade Appeals Procedure. If a student believes that a grade was assigned as a result of prejudice, caprice, or other improper condition such as mechanical error, the student may file a grade appeal following the university process in place; http://bulletin.ipfw.edu/content.php?catoid=33&navoid=866#Grade_Appeals

In the case of a grade appeal within the Department of Music, if a department committee is needed to hear the appeal, the department Student Affairs Committee will oversee formation of an ad hoc committee to hear the appeal.

Academic honesty. The department will not tolerate any level of academic dishonesty, including plagiarism, cheating, or falsifying work in any way, and will follow the university guidelines for dealing with academic honesty: http://bulletin.ipfw.edu/content.php?catoid=31&navoid=801#Academic_Honesty

University policies. The IPFW Bulletin is the authoritative source for current university policies and should be consulted if there are questions about any policy or procedure. http://bulletin.ipfw.edu/content.php?catoid=31&navoid=801#top

Health and Safety for Musicians

The Department of Music is concerned about our students maintaining a level of good health that supports their artistry. The very act of music making—singing, conducting, playing instruments—can be very demanding and cause stress on the voice, the body’s joints and muscles, and on the hearing mechanism. The department has prepared a document that addresses these issues and gives the student guidelines for prevention as well as strategies for ongoing care. The document is housed on the department web page.

Student Evaluation of Instruction.

Students are given the opportunity every semester to evaluate the instructor for each course, lesson, and ensemble in which they are enrolled. Such evaluations are very important to the faculty as one means of determining the effectiveness of instructional methods and maintaining a high level of quality teaching in the Department of Music. Beginning in Fall 2014 all evaluations will be submitted electronically, further ensuring the confidentiality of responses.

The faculty member and the Chair of the Department will receive a copy of the responses after semester grades have been submitted to the Registrar. Care and honesty in completing the survey are very important to the Department of Music’s ongoing endeavor to deliver instruction of the highest caliber.
FACILITIES

Hours. Rhinehart Music Center hours are from 7:00 am until 11:00 pm. Students may remain in the building for study and/or practice after hours only with written permission of the chair. Those who receive such permission must keep a copy of the permission slip with them when in the building after hours to present to university security officers when required.

Smoking. IPFW is a smoke-free campus. Smoking is not permitted anywhere on the campus.

Food and Drink. Food or drink are not permitted in the piano lab, music technology lab, practice rooms, or performance halls. On special occasions food and drink are allowed in certain areas of the building, but all liquids should be kept away from pianos and other instruments.

Lockers. Music majors may request use of music department lockers with full-time students having first priority. Lockers are assigned by the secretary in the music office (RC 144). Lockers may be reserved at the beginning of each school year and kept through the academic year so long as full-time status is maintained. There is no charge for the use of a locker.

The Department of Music assumes no responsibility or liability for personal possessions stored in lockers. Students are cautioned to secure their lockers, preferably with a combination lock. Those who do so must provide the music office the combination; those who use keyed locks must provide the music office with a key.

Those wishing to keep a locker through the summer must make a request to the department secretary. Lockers which are not reserved through the summer and which are not emptied within two weeks after commencement will have the locks cut off and will be emptied. The Department of Music will not reimburse the owner of any lock which must be destroyed in order for the department to reclaim possession of the locker.

The Department of Music reserves the right to open and inspect any locker at any time.

Department of Music Scholarships

All students applying for scholarships must submit the IPFW Common Scholarship Application in order to be considered. The application is available by the end of fall semester and closes in mid-March.

Since many music scholarships are need-based, all students applying for scholarships must fill out and submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA.

Scholarship awards to incoming students are made on the basis of the performance auditions, interview, placement tests, and academic history. To be considered for scholarships, new students must first be accepted into the university in good standing.

Returning students must submit an application to have their scholarships renewed. Unless otherwise noted, returning students must have a minimum overall Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.5 and a music GPA of 3.0. All scholarship renewals are subject to availability of funds.
