Office of Graduate Studies

IPFW Graduate Research Assistantships

The Office of Graduate Studies is pleased to announce two Graduate Research Assistantships. The purpose of the awards is to support IPFW strategic initiatives and to further graduate student research goals. The OGS Research Assistantships will be awarded competitively to graduate students who have demonstrated excellent potential for pursuing research. Faculty or departments should submit the application on behalf of the student (see below) which demonstrates:

- Significant involvement by the student in a specific research program
- Potential for publication or presentation involving the student
- Potential impact of the research project
- Applicants should demonstrate the potential for significant community or regional impact.
- Priority will be given to applications that demonstrate the potential for external funding.

The awards will provide one-year funding for two .50 FTE Graduate Research Assistants. Standard IPFW Graduate Assistant benefits and enrollment requirements will apply. Although multiple applications can be submitted from a single department, no more than one award will be granted within a department. Awardees will need to submit a report on the student’s success at the conclusion of Spring Semester.

A letter of support from the department chair or unit head and a copy of the sponsoring faculty member’s curriculum vitae should be attached.

Submit all materials to:
Carol Sternberger
Director of Graduate Studies
KT 174

Application deadline is April 1st.
Awards will be announced by May 1st

For additional information contact Carol Sternberger at 481-5798 or sternber@ipfw.edu